

NEW GERMAN ATTACK NEAR WARSAW FAILS PETOGRAD CLAIMS

RUSSIANS FORCED TO RETIRE TO SECOND LINE OF DEFENSE IN BATTLE OF SUNDAY.

CHARGE ON TRENCHES

Left Bayonet and Artillery Attacks
Result in Heavy Losses for Germans—No Change in Carpathians.

The new German attack on the Warsaw front has led to some of the heaviest fighting of the war in the east thus far. On one front less than half a mile long more than 6,000 Germans are said to have been killed in a week. The Russians charged the captured trenches with bayonets and Petrograd reports that they succeeded in winning back a large part of them.

The battle for the possession of the Carpathian passes continues, without definite success for either the Russians or the Austrians.

The report from the German war office today makes no mention of a big offensive movement along the Warsaw front. It asserts, however, that progress is being made. Aside from a few attacks by small bodies of German infantry, yesterday's fighting in the west was chiefly with artillery. The German war office accused the French military authorities of falsifying their official communication.

A dispatch from Tabriz, Persia, says that Turks left 1,000 dead in their retreat from the city.

Petrograd, Feb. 2.—Renewal of a fierce offensive by the Germans in the region of Vochachy and Bolimovo—the road to Warsaw is admitted in an official statement issued today. The violence of the German attack, the statement says, compelled some of the Russian units to retire to the second line of trenches. The communication was as follows:

Make Cavalry Charge.

On the right bank of the lower Vistula on January 31, our cavalry made a successful and unexpected assault upon the German line along the front between Breslau and Aleksejewo 15 versts (10 miles) north of Silesia, capturing many officers and soldiers.

The attempt of the Germans on the 30th to open an offensive movement in the direction of Lipno and Lublin supported by artillery fire, was checked.

"On the left bank of the Vistula at the village of Nakow and Lublin, the enemy was thrown back through the line of the villages of Weliczka and Naszgwo now northwest of Wielocewek. The Germans in retreat abandoned at Nakow many of their dead."

In the course of the day of Jan. 31, the enemy, after having concentrated in the region of Vochachy, Bolimovo and south of Bolimovo, a large force of artillery developed active operations against our positions with very considerable forces. The German offensive was distinguished by great tenacity advancing in close ranks, strongly supported by their Retire Before Attacks.

"After having concentrated a violent attack in the morning upon that portion of the front, the German offensive compelled some of our units to retire to the second line of

trenches.

In the meanwhile, a counter at-

ack from another detachment of our forces drove the enemy from all the trenches occupied by him, inflicting upon him enormous losses.

Were Surprised: Members of the "Waufau" club surprised Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hill at their home on Carrollton Street last evening, the occasion being to celebrate their birthdays. Members from Beloit and Milton Junction were obliged to remain in the city over night because of the bad car service.

ENGLISH BRAND FOOD AS WAR CONTRABAND

Washington, Feb. 2.—Great Britain notified the United States today, although not in official form, that food stuffs of any kind destined for Germany, Austria or Italy shall be regarded as contrabands of war.

The action of the British government is based upon the recent German decree whereby that government will take over all grain in Germany for common use.

According to report from our military chief, the Russian artillery inflicted immense damage on the German guns dispersed dense

gatherings of German infantry and

induced their batteries to silence.

It made it possible for us to resist

their fierce attacks.

Carpinthian Campaign.

The fighting in the Carpathians

continues. In spite of the reported

participation of fresh Austrian troops

which up to the present time have

actually appeared on our front,

we have succeeded in holding

the front in the vicinity of Mount

Huskie and Mount Wyckow, and we are continuing to advance with success along the front from Ninja Poiska to Leudvitski. It should be remarked that during the night of Jan.

30 and 31, at a point near Mollnow,

a Russian detachment advanced upon the enemy and dislodged him from

our positions which had threatened

the head of our trenches. In the encounter our men used their bayonets

and we captured some machine

guns.

An official communication issued by the general staff of the army of the Caucasus says:

"There were no engagements of importance at any point on the front

on Jan. 31."

DAKS OF MARTYRDOM ARE NOT YET OVER

"GO WORK TODAY IN MY VINE-YARD" IS TEXT OF SUNDAY SERMON BY T. D. WILLIAMS.

GOD SELLECTS SINNERS

To Relieve World of Its Woes, More Than Human Hands Are Needed If History Is Any Criterion.

"To the soul equipped for service, God! This was the advice given by Rev. T. D. Williams in his Sunday morning sermon at the Central Methodist church. Taking as his text the 23rd verse from the 21st chapter of Matthew, "Go work today in My vineyard," he told of the relationship that existed between God and man. God is an ever ready helper, and 'is the One who selects the sinners many times to do His work.'

"I could walk to Chicago if I wanted to. All I might be able to get into heaven without joining the church or a church," began Rev. Williams. "But despite all this, God sends a crew to guide him and act right when he is in danger. A man gets inspiration at home to supply the markets, but he does not stay home. He goes out to finish his work. God and Solomon built a temple. God and Martin Luther were responsible for the Reformation. God and George Washington made possible a democracy in this country that has always existed. God paved the way for emancipating the negro. God and McKinley established a popular government and human liberty. God and the reformer lead the people out of the depths of

"If history proves itself, more than human hands is needed to relieve this old world of its woes. You will remember how Moody wished to become a member of the old Mt. Vernon church at Boston, and how his application was refused on the ground that he was incompetent, and that he lacked the fundamentals. God selects unlikely material for his work. Do not go around saying you are not competent, not a genius or have no facilities. Do not say you have no power of initiation, no wealth. You have everything for the right life, by throwing away the bad habits, and by following the Master. What you need is a conversion and passion for service. You ask, what do we mean by a conversion? Simply a reconstruction of moral nature. In 1847 Judson Collier asked the church authorities the privilege of going to a church mission in China. He was told there was no missions there. Well, he said, find me a place. They did so, and he went to China, took up his home beside the banks of a river, and all over China today the people are blessing Collins. The same is true of Wilberforce. This man was one of England's best gamblers. He felt the touch of God's spirit, and even afterwards blessed humanity. His good work in England was little short of marvelous.

"During the last few days the news comes from Philadelphia that the three Unitarian churches opened a book store there to attract the attention of the people who were attending revival services under the direction of an orthodox preacher. But despite this attempt, the people are flocking to the revival meetings to hear about God, to be told that Christ died for us, and to hear the other good things. I tell you the days of martyrdom are not over. If congress fails to pass the treaty, and the immigrants will flock to this country as they always have done. Who was it that laid the foundation for Wisconsin? The immigrant. Who is it that paints our streets, digs our coal, and wants to know the Uncle Sam language? The immigrant. Here's a field for him, and let him come.

"There are merchants in Janesville who are not yet Christians and will not be until they are ready to see the light of Christ. Janesville lacks greatly the real spirit of Christianity. Go work today in my vineyard."

MUST HANDLE GROUND BALL SAYS DONOVAN

Manager of Rejuvenated Yanks Declares Fielders Must Handle Grounded Balls to Win Games.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, Feb. 2.—Candidates for infield berths on the rejuvenated Yankees this season will have to prove themselves as adept at handling ground balls as they are snaring the elusive fly before they can be sure of their jobs.

This is the latest ultimatum laid down by Manager Bill Donovan and only one of the several innovations.

Wild William is planning to introduce in the hope that the Highlanders can be kicked back in the elite section of Ban Johnson's loop.

"Many is the game," soliloquized Bill recently, "I have lost myself and seen other pitchers in it through some goat-headed outfielders, kicked a ground ball clear to the fence."

In directing his gardeners toward this end, Wild William will be aided by Joe Kelley, one time famous out-fielder on the Baltimore Orioles, and now chief ivory hunter for the Yankees.

"We used to do it the old days," said Joe, "the other day, and I can't see why we can't do it now. Many is the time I have seen higher Jennings, McGraw, and many others lead stars work for hours at a stretch learning the hop of a ball over a certain bit of ground. An infilder isn't considered much of a man if he isn't a good judge of a fly ball—if then why shouldn't the outer defense be just as good a judge of a ground ball?"

Bob Shawker just learned recently that he broke his hand in the women's series last October. The hand has been troubling him for some time and not long ago he had a doctor examined it. The examination showed that the two small bones in his right finger were badly cracked. Shawker lays the blame onto Rabbit Maraville. He remembers, he said after stopping a sissier off the Rabbit, that his hand pained him. The M. D. fixed it up and promised Bob he would be as good as ever next season.

WAUKESHA TO PLAY HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Spring City Team Look Like Easy Foo For Speedy Janesville Aspirants.—Games in the State.

Waukesha high school basketball team will invade Janesville on Friday for a clash with the high school quint on the gymnasium floor in the evening. The contest will determine largely which team is to be eliminated in the race for the southern state title.

The Waukesha team look like an easy task for Capt. Stickney and his players to handle. As Burlington's decidedly weak team, mowed down Waukesha's defense, and registered 100 points while there is little doubt but what Janesville will defeat the Spring City bunch.

The state situation is gradually reaching the climax, when the eight best teams in Wisconsin will fight for the state championship at Appleton. Appleton's defeat by Fond du Lac is a big boost for the Fond du Lac boys, like real champions.

Wausau and Baraboo are two more remarkable teams. Baraboo went to La Crosse last Friday and lost by two points, the final count being 22 to 20. It will be a fight between these two teams in the southwestern section.

The scores of last week are as follows:

Evansville, 35; Oregon, 15.
Ridge Center, 22; Jefferson, 11.
West Green Bay, 17; Wausau, 17.
Fond du Lac, 22; Appleton, 16.
Oconto, 17; Oconto Falls, 4.
La Crosse, 22; Baraboo, 20.

MORRIS MILLER

As an American possession it is better known universally than any other musical product of American authors. It has been played in England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, Australia, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Mexico and Brazil. Its only rival for international success is "The Bell of Paris" but the latter piece was not seen in the year of the foreign countries where "The Prince of Pilsen" enjoyed success.

The original production of "Hans Wagner" in his old role will be displayed at Myers Theatre tonight.

The chorus numbering thirty-seven alluringly fascinating, glorious young girls will create a new standard of loveliness when they appear here.

The special orchestra accompanying "The Prince of Pilsen" will be under the direction of Victor Clark.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

De Wolf Hopper and the internationally famous Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company, the most distinguished combination now appearing in population following the annual season each Spring at the Casino Theatre New York. They will be seen here in the most tuneful and delightful of all the Gilbert and Sullivan operas: "The Mikado," "Pirates of Penzance," "Trial by Jury" and "Pinafore."

The beautiful productions of these operas now being shown in Chicago will be brought here intact.

AT THE APOLLO.

"Lola" Tonight. In the adaptation of Owen Davis' play, pictured from Shubert's play, the favorite picture star, Clara Kimball Young has found a vehicle which enables her to give full vent to her unique gift of emotional characterization and at the same time portray a story of extraordinary interest. The story of "Lola" is one of the most remarkable that has been presented on the screen and there is no doubt that it will hold the close attention of the hundreds who will see it tonight at the Apollo.

De Wolf Hopper and Jayne Herbert in a Scene from Pinafore at Myers Theatre, Tuesday evening, February 9th.

AT THE APOLLO.

May Irwin in "Mrs. Black is Back." May Irwin, the celebrated comedienne, has at last joined the long list of distinguished stars who have recorded their art on the screen, and appears in the Famous Players Film Company's four-part film version of her famous comedy, "Mrs. Black is Back" at the Apollo tomorrow.

The distinguished comedienne, in her first film characterization, adds new distinction to her past triumphs. She is irresistible as the irrepressible Mrs. Black, who deceives her husband about her age, and who goes through a period of comic anguish as the result. "Mrs. Black" is a comedy of humorous deceptions, although it is nothing but the truth to say that is compelled to lie about the number of her years and the age of her son, whom she describes as a boy of fifteen, whereas he is a big strapping fellow just graduated from college. In order to maintain the deception, she forces her son to remain away from the house, while the professor's friends continually send him a vari-

ing the use of French on signs and placards posted on the streets, on the inner or outer walls of shops or other places of business. Bills, receipts, letterheads, and other business forms must be in the German language; books must be kept exclusively in that language. And only in German money. Metz and several towns in upper Alsace are exempted from the decree.

STAR OF OTHER DAYS DRAWS HIS RELEASE

Ed Reulbach, former star pitcher, was last week given his unconditional release by the Brooklyn Nationals. Reulbach used to win world's series games for the Chicago Cubs.

SCENE FROM "MOTHER" AT THE APOLLO, WEDNESDAY.

It is one of the best comedies that has ever been screened.

May Irwin appeared in the original stage version of the subject for many years, and the popular play therefore does not require a detailed description.

Miss Black, a gay widow, discovers that her prospective second husband does not like women over thirty, and

concludes that the children will also become more healthy if they are forced to consume proper breakfast before leaving for school, and that if they are kept from eating during school hours they will be ready to eat at their midday meal more of the vegetables they usually refuse and which are so abundant in Germany.

The writer says the children often leave their homes after a scanty breakfast and take a large package of bread and butter with them to school. He declares the scholars often are unable to consume the bulk of the food and thereupon throw it away in the streets. He suggests the official prohibition of the practice of bringing food to school and also of the sale of air dried except of "war bread" made of rye and potatoes to children for their immediate consumption. In this way he believes a great waste will be prevented and at the same time the marked shortage in wheat flour. He concludes that the children will also become more healthy if they are forced to consume proper breakfast before leaving for school, and that if they are kept from eating during school hours they will be ready to eat at their midday meal more of the vegetables they usually refuse and which are so abundant in Germany.

The writer says the children often leave their homes after a scanty breakfast and take a large package of bread and butter with them to school. He declares the scholars often are unable to consume the bulk of the food and thereupon throw it away in the streets. He suggests the official prohibition of the practice of bringing food to school and also of the sale of air dried except of "war bread" made of rye and potatoes to children for their immediate consumption. In this way he believes a great waste will be prevented and at the same time the marked shortage in wheat flour. He

WHAT ABOUT OUR GIRLS?

The girl in the home, when she arrives at the uncertain age between girlhood and womanhood, is always a perplexing problem, and frequently the cause of more anxiety than all the rest of the household. She is just as full of life as the boy and just as satisfactory as hoped for.

Speaker Whittet is holding his own at Madison and even the old-timers announce that never in the history of the lower house has such genuine good feeling existed. This speaks well for the speaker and his committee assignments.

Now that there is plenty of snow on the ground there is an excellent opportunity for the average property owner to get out and clean his walk and show that he believes in observing the law to the letter.

Discriminating wolves are keeping shy of Rock county these wintry days. Too many of them are finding their prey missing to suit the average member of the tribe.

The question is whether the groundhog saw his shadow today or not? If he did, look out for six weeks more of winter. If not, then we may expect an early spring.

WHEN BIRDS ARE HELPLESS

Remarkable Absence of Reason Displayed by Creatures to Whom Instinct Is All.

Some of nature's most active creatures show strange helplessness under certain conditions. Place a buzzard in a pen six or eight feet square entirely open at the top, and the bird will be as absolutely a prisoner as if it were hermetically sealed in the enclosure.

This is because buzzards never begin a flight from the ground without starting on a run of three or four yards. If they cannot have that preliminary run they either cannot or will not attempt to fly, and so a buzzard will remain a prisoner for life in a jail with a wide-open top.

So with the bumblebee. One of these lively insects dropped into a goblet or tumbler will remain there always unless taken out, because it never notices the means of escape at the top.

Fine Street Car Depot.

Berlin is now in proud possession of the largest and best arranged street car depot in the world. It has just opened at Lichtenfelde, a district on the eastern outskirts of the city, where it has been in process of building for several years. Five hundred large electric cars can be accommodated upon 26 lines which are laid abreast.

Reckless Spender.

Saphedde—It costs me $25,000 a year to live.

Miss Caustique—How foolishly some people spend their money!—Philadelphia Record.

Getting Used to It.

"Why do you fish every morning in the bathtub, old man? Is it a bet?" "Oh, no. I just want to get used to not catching anything. Am going on vacation soon."

Sell your house or any other piece of real estate you may have through the want ad column—the cost is but a trifle.

The results will be watched with interest. It might be possible that H. A. Cooper would make a fourth so-called progressive in the race for the senatorship, but who will be the choice of the conservative republicans is yet unsolved, and it will take time to eliminate the possible candidates for this strange combination event in the political field day.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

The present legislature, working along the lines of economy and efficiency of state service, can accomplish wonderful results if they follow the lines of the possible report of the joint senate and assembly committee, named to investigate state expenses. Consolidation of various departments of state service, bringing together, under one official head, various bureaus now run independently but affiliated in interests, reducing salary expenses and cost of administration of various interests, would be among the material gains. It would also take the business of the state out of politics and give the taxpayers the services of carefully trained and experienced men in place of political refugees who obtain appointments for services performed. It is a move along the right line. Conservation of state interests handled in a business-like manner has been the maxim of the present state government during the pre-election campaign and it is evident that it will be the doctrine continued to be enforced during the term of Governor Philipp as far as it is possible, unless the legislature seriously interferes with the program as mapped out for tentative consideration. It is an opportunity to demonstrate what can be accomplished along these lines and it is to be hoped that no serious objections will be raised.

So the waterworks question has again been decided in favor of the city and the railroad commission has entered an order that the city take possession by April 1. However, there is still time for some other court action and it is possible it will be taken. Otherwise Janesville will soon be running its own water plant and then the trouble will begin in earnest.

These are strenuous days down in Washington. The filibuster against the ship purchase measure has been most interesting. Aside from that, the naming of three democrats and two progressives for the new government, to the exclusion of the republican party, has raised more than an uproar and will make most excellent campaign material.

Janesville's resources, business interests and possibilities were all subjects for discussion at the Commercial club dinner last evening. The showing was most remarkable and at this time when there is such a hue and cry over hard times, it speaks well for the community in which we live.

The German submarines and the airships of the kaiser are evidently working overtime along the English coast and the result should be most pleasing to the followers of the German arms even if the dispatches from the scenes of actual warfare are not as satisfactory as hoped for.

When Mother Comes Marching Home
(There is a new item to the effect that the refugees will in the near future march to Washington again
in an effort to bring about certain legislation.)

When mother comes marching home
again,
From bairding the lion in his den,
Hurrah! Hurrah!

Her high-heeled shoes will be worn
and soled,
But we'll all feel gay when
Mother comes marching home.

Her hair will be sadly out of curl,
And she won't look like the same old girl.

Hurrah! Hurrah!
She'll be beaugregged and every dud
Will be bespattered with eastern mud.

But we'll give three cheers when
Mother comes marching home.

For woman's place it at home, you
know,

Hurrah! Hurrah!

If you'd start a night just tell her so,
Hurrah! Hurrah!

It's mighty joesome when she's away.

There's no one to boss you around
all day,

And you won't feel right till
Mother comes marching home.

When mother comes marching home,
Hurrah! Hurrah!

She never will want to march again,
Hurrah! Hurrah!

For after that she will shun the hike,
She'll have enough, so help her,

bike,

She'll have enough, so help her
Mike.

When mother comes marching home.

STORM KING'S GRIP TIGHTENS ON CITY IN NEW FURY TODAY

CONDITIONS DURING MORNING
AND EARLY AFTERNOON MORE DEMORALIZED THAN YESTERDAY.

JANESEVILLE ISOLATED

Wire and Railway Communication
Practically All Off—Conditions
Rival Five Years Ago.

Janeville is practically isolated from the world today in one of the worst railway, telegraph and telephone tieups that has come upon this section in the past five years. The crest of the trouble seems not to be reached as yet as conditions today
are far worse than those experienced yesterday.

The amount of damage to telegraph
and telephone wires cannot be estimated. Crews from both the local telephone companies are out repairing the outks of the city for breaks in the long distance toll wires.

The Postal and Western Union telegraph companies are cut off with little outside connections. The Western Union, up to noon today, had bad
connection with Chicago since 6:05 o'clock last night. Between 25
and 30 poles were on the ground near Havasu, Ill., and one line between here and Chicago there were eighteen breaks in stretched strand. A single shaped wire to place where several poles were down in succession.
Their service was confined to Beloit
and Edgerton.

Service on rural lines of the Rock county system was impaired this morning when poles in Spring Brook
near the fire station on South Jackson street and several more near the cemetery on North Washington street
fell snapping the wires. The trouble will be repaired by tomorrow morning.

The Wisconsin system has a number of heavy toll lines down and press wire between Milwaukee and Janeville was in working order this morning. Near the county house the breaking of several poles placed this particular line out of commission. Between here and Beloit service was at a standstill. The gale of last night
knocked down many of the electric wires near the Monterey bridge so badly that stopped all service as the trees burned apart. Towards Mt.
Zion and other points north more trouble is being experienced.

Sandwiches last sold at a dollar
each on the Chicago and Northwestern passenger train. No. 22, Waterton to Harvard, which is still stalled between here and Milton at Anderson's crossing. It was still in the drift at noon today having stopped
shortly after leaving Milton about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A relief train sent from here last night
had become stalled this side of the Brake man, William McDonald, walked out about a mile last night to this city for a cup of hot coffee
and sandwich and supplies for the marooned passengers in the coaches
of the first train.

The most serious setback is being experienced on the Southern Wisconsin division on the Northwestern. Trains from the north this morning were from a half to two hours late.
Northbound trains however were running on better schedules.

Consequently train No. 8 due west
from here at 11 o'clock this morning
had to be abandoned although it was stated at the depot that it would be run this afternoon providing conditions permitted. The Milwaukee train, No. 21, did not arrive in the city until after noon. Poor connections and wire trouble were the causes.

Practically all wire communications were impossible on both roads. Poles are down in some places and in others
the heavy wind snapped the wires
like so many threads. The Milwaukee was in communication this morning
with only Edgerton and Savannah.

No freight trains are being dispatched on either of the two local roads. Passenger traffic is giving enough trouble. Freights should be able to move some time this afternoon
or tonight.

Roadmaster Jackson of the Milwaukee road went west this morning with the latter a track machine which clears the snow away from the space
inside the rails in an attempt to relieve Conductor Thomas Brennan and the trains in the snow near Monroe. Locally considerable trouble is being experienced by dispatchers in arranging for the reliving of crews under the 16-hour law which is to the effect that railroad crews on duty at the end of 16 hours must be relieved directly by another fresh crew.

There was no interurban service
between here and Beloit this morning.
The station at the Myers hotel reported that a car had arrived about as far as South Janeville but that the heavy snow, similar to yesterday, was causing much trouble. Between Beloit and Rockford similar trouble
was being met.

The car, which was just outside of the city limits, reached the downtown
district shortly before 2 o'clock.

The freezing of the interlocking switch on the interurban near the porch shade plant caused work to be abandoned last night until this morning.

The local street cars were maintaining fairly good schedules. Cars were being run on the Main and Jackson
street lines and to the cemetery.

The Milwaukee street grade was in poor condition early today and it was thought advisable by Superintendent
William Murphy to establish schedules
on the other lines before opening up the hill tracks. In a statement today
Mr. Murphy said that this line would be open for operation tonight.

The old saying that it's an ill wind
that does not blow some good was faithfully demonstrated this morning.
A great demand for labor presented itself and tonight there should be no
shortage of unemployed in Janeville.

The M. & St. P. Ry. company
took over the road and presented himself
today and the North Western was also hiring large crews. On the local car line a crew of twenty-five were working to open up the lines. The interurban had a large force working near the Caloric for the resumption of the Janeville and Beloit schedules.

The railroads expect to keep their gangs
busy for several days clearing yards,
depot platforms and other places.
Standard wages were being paid for all labor. The Milwaukee road took every man who sought work at $2.50
per day.

L. K. Crissey was at Stoughton today.

REST ROOM PROJECT IN NEED OF FUNDS

Canvassers of Civic League Find That Merchants Are Not Familiar With Plan.

Members of the Civic League who have had fifteen of the street employees
working yesterday and today cleaning the street crossings, opening the sewers and clearing the gutters of the ice packes of ice that prevented
what drivers had to reach the drains a very little sand has been sprinkled since the snowfall, there being little necessity.

This afternoon Fireman Thomas Mc-Kuen scraped the gutters of the main streets with the grader and opened up
many of the resident streets with the plows, the heavy snow falls, blocking traffic badly.

A plea for the cleaning of the walks
was again sent out by the commissioned, and without the request being needed, notices from the city hall will order the work done.

Repairs were made by members of the Fire Department yesterday and today
which corrected a defect that impaired the alarm system in the fourth and fifth wards. They were in working order at noon today when
a test was made.

Train No. 21 of the C. M. & St. P. arrived here this afternoon from Milwaukee a few minutes before 2 o'clock. The same train was dispatched west on the Mineral Point division.
The line here was in fairly good condition, and it was felt that the passenger could anyway get as far as Monroe.

Madison Snowbound.
Madison, Wis., Feb. 2.—Madison was cut off from the outside world by telephone and telegraph Monday, and train service was practically at a standstill since early morning. Street car service was all put out of business throughout the day. The sum which had this vicinity in its grasp proved troublesome to several highway officials and visitors
to the annual road school of the state highway commission which opened here. The attendance was lighter than usual on account of the weather.

"The ladies are pledging themselves
to see that the rooms are cared for
and kept up without cost to the merchants who will be vastly benefited.
To make it easy for the merchants,
many of whom complain that they are
but continually asked for something to do, the committee offered four amounts to be made monthly. The Civic League believes that Janeville merchants cannot afford to let this plan fail for want of funds."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE.

"I never read serials," a girl said to me the other day. There is nothing startling in that statement. In fact it is far from made me thoughtful. After all, the pride with which it was uttered. Why should one be proud of a prejudice? Especially one that deprives one of pleasure? Yet people almost invariably are. I have heard that statement at least a hundred times and each time it was uttered with an air of great pride. Evidently pride and prejudice go hand in hand today just as they did in Jane Austin's time.

The Joys of Reading Serials.

Personally I like to read serials. I am reading three at the present time and they furnish delightful little points of interest in my life. Again and again the people in them come into my mind and I wonder what will happen to them in the next installment. I speculate as to whether the doctor in disguise will go back to being a doctor again, and if the woman who lost her man will find another to make the little home beautiful; and I find a pleasure in the contemplations akin to the pleasure which the veiled uncertainties and vast possibilities of life itself offer the greatest serials of all.

Of course it is trying to be forcibly parted from the heroine at a crucial moment by a cold-blooded "he continued," but that annoyance soon passes and in the balance we have the anticipatory delight of suddenly discovering that the time for the next installment is close at hand and the fulfillment of hurrying home with a fair new copy of the longed-for magazine under one's arm to an open fire and a lovely firelight.

Why it almost makes my heart ache to think of all that these people miss who "never read serials."

The Old Prejudice Against "Canned Music."

I don't care for canned music," is another preface in which people seem to take infinite pride. I know a girl who adopted this epigram before the music machines were satisfied with a point of contention at which people of the finest musical taste enjoyed them she still clings proudly to her prejudices and refuses to listen to the most beautiful records.

Indiscriminate race prejudice is another fence to keep out happiness. To make up your mind to dislike a whole race and to set yourself firmly against recognizing the claims to friendship or admiration of any member of that race, however worthy, is to steal yourself against many possibilities of breadth and happiness, as well as to do injustice to others.

One who read the painfully sincere article in a recent magazine written by a woman who had suffered from the injustice inflicted by those who cherish such a wholesale prejudice against a certain race can help feelings.

Don't cherish your prejudices; distrust them, examine them; and discard them whenever you can. Not only will you thus make sure of being just and reasonable but only so can you open your heart and life to the fullest possibilities of happiness.

Animal Jingles FOR LITTLE FOLKS

HAROLD HIPPOPOTAMUS.

I wonder how you'd like to hear of Harold Hippopotamus, who plagued and teased his little friends, and always made a lot of fuss.

A Hippopotamus can live as well in water as on land; they all can swim like anything (they're made that way, you understand).

So every morning Harold went down to the river for a swim. And almost always he would coax his little friends to go with him.

And when he'd get them down there he would tease them till they got provoked; he ducked the smaller children in the water till they almost choked.

He kept this up till finally an Alligator who lived in the river said: "I'll give that Hippo a taste of his own medicine."

So next time Harold teased his friends the Gator grabbed him by the toe and said: "Unless you promise me you will be good, I swear I won't let go."

And Harold was so scared that he was glad to promise, and I'm pleased to say the lesson did him good, and from that day he never teased.

You see that no one really likes a teasing child, so let us try to do to all our little friends exactly as we'd be done by.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you tell me how to reduce waist line and hips?

(2) Can you tell me anything to use for extremely dry lips? They have been in that condition for a year, about four years. It is very disagreeable.

(3) Can you tell me a remedy for corns and callouses on feet caused by constant standing?

READER.

If your waist and hips are fat you can reduce flesh by dieting and vigorous exercise. Walking is best, as the walk is vigorous for at least an hour a day. A breakfast of oatmeal and fruit is a good time. Eat fats, sugars, or starches. Use bacon, bread, lean meat, fish, skinless milk, fresh vegetables. Drink quantities of water between meals, but little at once as baths. The quickest way to reduce the hips is to wear a rubber garment next to the skin. This promotes perspiration. Exercise to reduce waist and hips. Dressing in morning sit astride a chair facing back, grasp back firmly and twist body as far as possible to the right, then to the left, not moving the seat. Next stand on one foot and step the other knee with both hands and bring it up to chest. Lie on back, lift legs as high as possible and as far forward as head without bending knee. Lie on back and with arms held straight in front of you, rise to sitting posture. When sitting, care is taken to have the spine touch the back of the chair about three inches from the tip while the shoulders are thrown back, a position attained which is best to prevent pronouncing abdomen, and large hips are lessened.

(4) Camphor ice is very good for dry lips.

(5) Soak feet in warm water for twenty minutes, then rub callouses

TIPPERARY TURBAN MAKES APPEARANCE

Feminine Headgear Young in Janesville as Yet, But May Make Greater Showing When Warmer.

The war has already had its effects on the names of various articles of clothing offered for sale in the United States.

The "Tipperary Turban" following the song has already made its appearance in Janesville. Although there is not Margaret Mason on the city band to give Gazette readers a first hand description of the jaunty piece of feminine headwear it might be described as resembling a ten cent phonograph record about three inches thick entwined with a light spray of flowers.

But the "Tipperary Turban" is not the first time that some word or group of words in connection with a conflict or some other event has been made use of in naming the wearing apparel of the American public.

During the late Balkan trouble the "Balkan Blouse" was named and children, and the Bulgarian, Roman and Persian stripe in men's neckwear proved very popular. Similarly during the war between Greece and Turkey, the "Greco Hat" for men made its appearance. The "Russian Blouse" during the Russo-Japanese war was a common piece of wearing apparel among practically every child in the country and at the time of the Boer war in South Africa "Kimberly Caps" were the popular mode of male headgear.

The rage for the "Rough Rider Hats" consequent on the conflict with Spain, following the renowned Colonel's spirited charge up San Juan continued for several years for this particular cut.

A brother of the German Kaiser, Prince Henry of Prussia, visited the United States several years ago, wearing a peculiar yachting hat, and from then on for a long period "Prince Henry Yacht" hats were the premier for Johnny off or on the yacht.

Thus the present struggle has brought forth the "Tipperary Turban." To make the wipers perfectly neutral someone should invent—perhaps—a "Pretzel Coat."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

GOOD DISHES OUT OF TIN CANS.

Salmon Loaf. One medium-sized salmon, one tin can salmon, one egg, one tablespoon vinegar, one cup bread or cracker crumbs, salt and pepper to taste, two ounces salt pork, chopped fine. Mix all ingredients together, mold into round or square loaf, bake slowly one hour. Garnish with lettuce leaves, or parsley and serve hot. A very good cold.

Salmon Patties. One can salmon, one cup mashed potatoes, one medium-sized onion, one egg, one cup cracker crumbs, pepper and salt. Mix well together, form into patties and fry in very hot fat until a golden brown.

Scaloped Salmon. One can salmon, one medium-sized tomatoes; arrange in alternate layers with salt pepper and piece of salt pork, size of egg, chopped fine. Add liquid from both cans. Cover top with bread or cracker crumbs, dot with butter and bake till done—about 1½ hours slowly.

Salmon Toast. Put some butter in small pan, 2½ cups milk. Let come to a boil, chicken with flour, add one cup salmon and fine salt and pepper to taste. Pour over slices of toast and serve. Very good.

Ready Seeded Raisins. Put them in dish, pour boiling water over cover and let remain ten minutes. It will soften them so that by rubbing each raisin between the thumb and finger the seeds will come out perfectly clean. Raisins are then ready for chopping or cutting.

MEAT ECONOMY.

So much has been said of the high cost of living and ways of reducing the same, that I want to add my bit. Every housewife knows of the many uses the despised soup bone (or ham bone) can be put to.

Buy a shark (which will cost 25 cents). Boil this meat, extract from bones freely. Put a basin of water in a weight on first pouring on a part of the stock the bones were boiled in. When cold it will form a solid cake, held together by the stock. Cut in thick slices as needed to serve the following dishes:

Take one slice, run through food chopper, add twice the quantity of potato and a small onion to make a nice hash.

Add a little water to one slice of meat, cut in small pieces; add thickening to make a gravy; pour all over small squares of toast. Very nice for breakfast.

Take off meat slices enough, add

ded to the stock the shank was boiled in, to make a quart or more of the meat (cut in squares) and gravy; place all in pan or large basin, cover and refrigerate. Cut in small biscuits, place on top of gravy and bake till biscuits are done. When serving, it is much nicer than the old way.

Take off the meat, run through food chopper, season with salt, pepper and sage, add an egg well beaten, mix together, form into small cakes, fry in hot fat till brown on both sides.

If you like liver, fry, dipping slices in well beaten egg, then rolling in cracker crumbs in place of flour or meal.

WORTH KNOWING. In roasting fowl in oven you will find by wrapping a little cloth around legs, wings and neck all the juicy flavor is retained and, when placed on table, no dry parts overcooked.

Ready Seeded Raisins. Put them in dish, pour boiling water over cover and let remain ten minutes. It will soften them so that by rubbing each raisin between the thumb and finger the seeds will come out perfectly clean. Raisins are then ready for chopping or cutting.

Salmon Salad. One tall can salmon, one large onion, one lemon, one hard-boiled egg. Garnish salad dish with lettuce or parsley and, after mixing salad, onion and lemon together, put into dish; on top put the egg cut in slices.

somewhere else besides on the top of dresser, but you are liable to fly to arms, I suppose, if I ask you to put them in the bathroom." Neil had a note of real impatience in her voice.

"Look here, Neil; is this house yours or ours? That's what I want to know," asked her husband with something of her tone.

"Why, Richard! A woman always decides how a house is to be arranged. I don't go down to your office and dictate how you shall have things, replied the wife in surprise.

"It's different. You would have a perfect right to do so if you were my business partner. This is just the point I'm making. This is the place where both of us are to live our lives, and one can't lay down arbitrary laws for the other to follow. Dick must live his own life."

Dick swept out of the room, her head in the air. She was angry at Dick. It frightened her. Was he her pretty home that she took such pride in to be made hideous because Dick insisted on having all sorts of things in wrong places? A man knows nothing about the arrangement of a home; he should not interfere. Dick was always wanting books and papers "handy," and what he called "handy" was to her disposer.

As she was moodily washing the dishes her husband stuck his head in the kitchen door. "Well, I'm off, Neil," he called.

She dried her hands and followed him to the door to kiss him goodby and watch him out of sight, but this morning he did not turn and wave when he reached the corner. This was distinct shock to her. He was angry, too. Only a month married and both of them had been angry.

When Dick sat down in the pleasant living room that evening he had been reading the news before on the library table. He looked up with a smile of appreciation at his wife, who was watching to see if he noticed the innovation.

"Thank you, dear. That's as I like it. I think it gives a home a cozier appearance to have reading matter around. It looks as if someone living in the premises likes to read. Don't you think a room that looks as though it was used is more home-like than just a formal array of furniture carefully dusted?"

"Yes, Dick," she answered.

(Note.—The further experiences of Neil and Dick will be related from time to time.)

Glimpses of Married Life

"SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE."

New York, Feb. 2.—Armies march on their stomachs, and babies crawl thereon and from the crying class into the happiness that comes early from the judicious administration of a proper diet, if the tiers of boxes which are piling up at the Bush Terminal today speak for anything.

For while some tenement babies are whetting their infantile appetites on soups and beers, the children of unfortunate victims will breakfast, sup and dine on sweetened condensed milk, patent barley flour, and other delicacies counted on to develop the muscles and dispositions of babyhood.

Childish Retaliation.
It has been rather cruelly said that
a child's love of endlessly dressing,
hand and face washing and otherwise beautifying her doll, comes less from a hating for neatness than from a desire to inflict on something else the continual discipline which she herself
receives from her nurse as from a stern inexorable fate. No matter, make believe doesn't depend on motive for its effectiveness, and we are all human.

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup
Easily and Cheaply
Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest
cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup and watch
that cough vanish.

Your 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a pint bottle and fill
the bottle with plain granulated sugar
candy. The total cost will be 64 cents,
and gives you a full pint of family
supply—of a most effective remedy saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a harsh cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex.
Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste.
Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly
it loosens the dry, hoarse or harsh cough and heals the inflamed membrane of the throat. It also stops
the formation of phlegm in the throat
and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persist ent loose cough. A splendid remedy
for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial
asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guineacol, which is so good to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not expect anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded.

Line Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement
concerning calcium (line) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis: "Under the systematic, continued
and persistent regime of calcium inhalation, all patients improve, undergo an exudative stage, and consolidation in the lung, which then would appear to contribute to the swelling of and closing of the lesions, and stand with this course of events, the curative effect
of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are cured with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Medical journals seldom
speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides
with that of many consumptives
who have had excellent results
through the use of Eckman's Alternation. Calcium is a constituent of this remedy for pulmonary tuberculosis

and allied forms of bronchial affections.
Its healing power may in some measure be attributed to the minerals in which this element is so concentrated. Its ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person and it does not irritate the stomach.

Eckman's Alternative contains no
opiates, narcotics or stimulating agents, so it is safe to try. If your physician is out of it, ask him to order or send direct to

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT FOR THIS PAPER MADE WITH THE UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.

(Copyright, 1914, by John Fleming Wilson.)

"We shan't interfere with Ruth's getting away, shall we?" John responded.

There was a glimmer of admiration
in Faversham's eyes as he shook his head.

"No, Achmet will take her his own way. We go an entirely different one
if we escape the mob."

He had hardly spoken when the outer gate swung inward and there was a wild crush of struggling bodies between the high pillars. A stone struck the floor between the two Europeans.
"Come with me," said Faversham and drew Dorr around a corner and then inside a small entry. Another entry giving off this offered escape
and they darted down it. An instant
later they were in an empty courtyard.

"I know where I am now," Faversham said coolly and opened a gate in the opposite wall which led into a garden. Five minutes later the two men came within view of the little cavalcade which was escorting the god to a place of safety.

Vile as were the men he had hired,
Wilkerson dared not trust them too far. He knew that they were superstitious, and he feared that when it came to a battle between avarice and inborn terror of the supernatural he would be left in the lurch.

So he warned Drake not to appear too anxious and by no means to let their followers know that they intended
to seize the image and take it away
with them.

"But if the papers are in that idol," Drake protested, "we ought to be able to get them and replace the old image,
with nobody a jot the worse."

"That may be possible," was the response. "On the other hand, the plans
may be concealed so that it will take time to find them."

They discussed a dozen plans and finally decided that the next night the two of them, accompanied only by their guide, should make the trial.

"But supposing they have the image,
where shall we find it?" questioned Drake. "They have a lot of stuff in their packs, and you may be sure they have concealed the idol well. Unless they feared its being stolen again they wouldn't be going to all this pains."

"We'll find it all right," said Wilkerson at last. "We know he is on the trail, and we'll just follow him. Sooner or later we'll catch him."

Jean Darnell sullenly agreed, but privately confided to Drake that she thought Wilkerson had lost his nerve.

John went on eagerly. "Achmet will take her to a camp of pegrims outside the city," he answered.

"But how? She won't be safe with only a native."

"Safer than with a regiment of soldiers," was the response. "I know where the place is. Let's go to it. I guarantee that we shall find Miss Gallon safe and sound. I know Achmet of old. He is specially trustworthy because he is a Mohammedan and he doesn't respect idols any more than you and I do."

They finally reached the camp up
the bank of the river and Achmet surprised before them.

"Where is the maiden?" demanded Faversham.

The servant rose and took the covering off a large basket. Ruth smiled up at them.

"I heard your voices," she said,
laughing. "Achmet thought I ought to get out right away, but I wanted to surprise you."

"And that is the way you get out of the hotel?" demanded John.

"Yes, Achmet tucked me into this basket and carried me right through all those terrible people."

"What is to be done now?" John demanded presently.

"I'll have Achmet get our belongings," said Faversham. "This gang
here is his, he says. We can't do better than stick with them for awhile,
I believe they are going up into the hills anyway. So much the better for us. Bala is no spot for you and me just now."

"Wilkerson's shifty eyes narrowed.
"I'll get that idol!" he boasted.

"I forgot to tell you that the idol
isn't there any longer," Drake complained. "From what I could learn
the temple wasn't considered a safe place for it, and it's disappeared."

"Where to?" demanded Wilkerson.

"That I couldn't find out. It was rather risky asking too much anyway,

She knew this, and at times her watery eyes rested on him with unmis-

gaining the master key and uncovering
the wealth of the great mother.

CLINTON

Clinton, Feb. 2.—Rev. W. F. Ireland, went to Walworth, Friday afternoon, where he spoke at a special meeting in the evening, returning Saturday morning.

Charles Whittleford, who sold his residence property on North Church street, to Christ Jensen, was unable to find a place in Clinton that suited him, has purchased a home in Sharon where he and his wife will move March 1st. Mr. and Mrs. Whittleford have made many friends during their short sojourn among us who will regret to see them leave Clinton.

Three English-speaking churches are continuing to meet more closely than ever before and union cottage prayer meetings are being held and all three are making special effort to get out every person to church next Sunday, being Wisconsin's go to church Sunday which is being observed all over the state. Attractive label buttons have been purchased and distributed among the church going people to advertise the event.

W. W. Purcell, principal of the school, has been confined home by illness a few days lately.

E. H. O'Reilly and wife of Janesville were here Saturday afternoon and Sunday visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James O'Reilly of Darien, were here Saturday.

Mrs. O. Floyd Winn was in Delavan Friday on business.

H. A. Howe was in Madison Friday and Janesville Saturday.

The Clinton Y. M. C. A. basketball team met the Janesville team Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A. gym and were defeated by the visiting team by a score of 47 to 40. In every way considered, was a very fine showing for Clinton, as the visitors were much heavier and more powerful team individually and collectively and had the advantage of more practice.

Le Gall Gammie returned home Saturday night from a ten days' trip southwest.

The United Workers will give one of their 15-cent suppers next Friday night, February 5th, at the church parsonage.

Master David Baner, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. David Baner died Saturday night after an illness of several weeks. Little David was a favorite of all who knew him as he was an exceedingly attractive child in every way and his sorrowing parents and three little sisters have the sympathy of the entire community. The funeral arrangements have not been completed at this writing.

S. V. N. L. Hughes and sister, Mrs. Parke Norton, returned from Delavan Saturday night.

Despatch From Fern.
It is said that an excellent beverage, similar to tea, can be brewed from the common mallow-hair fern.

BAD COLD? GET RELIEF AT ONCE WITHOUT QUININE

"PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND" ENDS SEVERE COLDS OR GRIPPE IN FEW HOURS.

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and sniffling! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

AWAKE ALL NIGHT
Mrs. Phoenix Gregoire, of 17 Phillips St., Central Falls, R. I., says, "My baby had the grip and would cough all night. Father John's Medicine was the best medicine for him. He could not go without it." Best for colds.

Father John's Medicine
For Colds and Throat and Lung Troubles. A pure food medicine. 50 years in use.
No alcohol or poisonous drugs.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

Secretary McDowell Reviews Club's Record and Functions

Secretary W. J. McDowell's report to the Commercial club not only reviewed the accomplishments of the past twelve months, but contained a strong plea for greater harmony and co-operation for the important work which is to be undertaken during the coming year. He hit the keynote of the proposed work when he said: "During the coming year it is the intention of the club to develop the community spirit," and "if we localize the interest of a large body of farmers we in substance increase the population of our city."

Mr. McDowell's report follows in part:

"In presenting this report I desire to place before you gentlemen an outline of what has transpired during the past year.

"Your board of directors has held

two weekly meetings, and at

each of these meetings topics have been discussed concerning the welfare of this city.

Farmers' Interests Reckoned.

"At your meeting of a year ago, a proposition was advanced to secure for the county an agricultural expert. Our recent corn contest has shown

not only to the city, but the country as well, the possibilities of agriculture in Rock county, and I believe that the work done has enabled us to secure the services of such an expert.

"The Corn Contest is now an established feature with the Commercial club, and your directors have secured

for two such contests of this nature

and have pledged themselves to raise

it to $500.00 to be awarded in prizes.

It is the aim of this club to bring into

closer touch with the citizens of Janes-

ville the farming community, and for this reason the corn contest will be a big feature in bringing about the desired result.

"During the year the subject of better street lighting has been taken up and the citizens of Janesville will have the benefit of this improvement before

the summer passes.

"Let me call your attention to the work done by the civic committee of the Commercial club. Last spring

which resulted in the cleaning of the streets and alleys, thereby eliminating the pest. I am informed that the work done last spring will be continued and that contracts have been made with the various contractors for the hunting of ashes and manure from the various premises. This will mean that we will have a cleaner

and healthier city.

Investigated Many Factories.

"Your industrial committee has investigated twenty-three factory pro-

positions and after careful consideration found that these factories were not able to save our citizens and members a large sum of money.

"While on this subject, it might be of interest to know that the factories

of Janesville are a credit to the city

and it is my opinion that instead of devoting our main energies to securing

new industries, which might be a burden to our citizens, we should be able to secure these factories our support.

"During the past year our traffic

bureau has been working for saving

our members considerable amounts.

"Claims have been filed to the amount of $1,500. We have quoted numerous

freight rates and endeavored to be of service to all our members. This bureau has not been patronized to the extreme I would like, and there is no reason why every member engaged in business should not take advantage of

it. Retail Division Helped.

"Our retail division, in my opinion, is one of the best in the state. Our members work in close harmony and

are able to maintain the community

spirit. This is evidenced by the numerous sales that have been added

during the past year, by which the farmer and also the citizens of this town were able to reap the benefit.

Want to Call Attention to the fact that our retailers have been able to protect themselves against unpro-

mised advertising through the medium

of an agreement signed last year, and

urge that they follow it closely."

The Credit Bureau, to which all our members have access, is one that we can be proud of. Through this source the members are able to obtain the rating

of the various credit bureaus.

The Commercial club will be a large

factor in molding public opinion, and

will be able to advance the civic and

commercial interests of its membership.

The time is not far distant when

the Commercial club will be a large

factor in molding public opinion, and

commercial interests of its membership.

Commercial Club

has been given to the members of the Commercial club.

President George S. Parker in the president's annual address to the Commercial club last evening declared that the members were just

awakening to the great opportunities

which are presenting themselves for the advancement of the Janesville community.

"One of the mistakes of the Commercial club," said Mr. Parker, "has been to place too much emphasis

upon the purchasing function of securing new industries for the city.

This has been found to be practically a fruitless effort. More attention should be given to catering to the needs of those who are located with us and with much greater results.

It is my candid opinion that practically

all the prominent industries in this city are those which had their inci-

ption on the soil of Janesville.

"I think of it! If we could by a stroke of magic add to the territory

contiguous to Janesville another

county whose inhabitants would do

their trading in the city, we would

think that we had done a great deal.

Yet, within a radius of five miles,

there is probably the richest farmland

in the world, and statistics

show us that this land has not reached

its highest state of efficiency in production, and assistance in any manner the pro-

GET CHANCE TO PARE STATE'S TAX BUDGET

PHILIPP ADMINISTRATION HAS REAL OPPORTUNITY TO CARRY OUT ECONOMY
PROGRAM.

ESTIMATES SUBMITTED

Cost of Wisconsin Government Will be $16,670,000 for 1915-16 if All Appropriation Requests Carry.

[EXTRICAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 2.—State taxes may go up, not down, in Wisconsin if the estimates of the different departments, universities and normal schools are approved by this session of the legislature. The budget of the state has been filed by the board of public affairs with the joint finance committee of the legislature. It shows that the actual state taxes collected, not including common school taxes, for this year are $3,251,271. On the basis of estimated rates filed with the board of public affairs it will require a state tax of $2,959,570 for the year 1915 and $4,026,700 for the year 1917. The rate of taxation upon this basis would be about one and one-fifth mills. It means that state taxes will increase nearly three-quarters of a million dollars during the next two years.

Here Are the Figures.

The cost of government in Wisconsin based on the estimates filed will be as follows for the next two years: 1915-16 $16,670,275.72 1916-17 $15,145,124.24

These totals do not include the common school fund revenues from the state tax, which will yield over $2,000,000 annually, based on the estimated state assessment. It must be remembered that these totals are but estimates, which are placed before the joint finance committee as a basis of action. By curtailing some of the work now done by the government these estimates can, of course, be scaled down somewhat. For the past fifteen years the average state tax, not including the common school mill law, is $2,084,551.

The detailed estimate is to be made during the year 1915-16 follows: State departments, boards and state aid, $8,047,088; charitable and penal, $2,832,620; normal schools, $1,410,223; and university $3,088,387.16. Total, $16,670,275.72.

1916-17: State departments, boards and state aid, $8,047,088; charitable and penal, $2,832,620; normal schools, $1,410,223; and university $3,088,387.16. Total, $15,145,124.24.

Comparison Shows Increase.

For the purpose of giving a basis of comparison the same figures are given for the year 1913-14 and 1914-15. They indicate a steady increase in all items compared.

For 1913-14: Departments, boards and state aid, $8,547,085.15; charitable and penal, $2,849,542.70; normal schools, $1,031,468.06; university, $2,730,681.60. Total, $12,314,835.61.

For 1914-15: Departments, boards and state aid, $8,894,532.70; charitable and penal, $2,849,548.61; normal schools, $1,410,223 and university $3,088,387.16. Total, $16,193,292.95.

In the budget submitted to the committee prepared by and under the direction of J. B. Taylor, there is a detailed statement as to how these items are arrived at for every department of government. The same budget shows the estimates of receipts, from what sources they are received, and the use made of these funds.

The estimated disbursements for the university for 1915-16 are: For operation, $2,509,077.16; for repairs, $66,000; for permanent improvements, $364,800, making a total of $2,898,877.11.

For the following year the estimates are: For operation, $2,648,052.16; for repairs, $70,000; for permanent improvements, $366,435, making a total of $3,088,387.16.

Estimates of University.

The university estimates that for the year 1915-16 it will receive from the mill tax and have as unexpended balances, the sum of $2,943,007.47. The university therefore requests this year in addition to its own revenues the sum of $238,233.16 for operations, $66,000 for repairs and $317,500 for permanent improvements, making a total of $322,536.16. The total amount needed in addition to its regular revenues for the year 1916-17 for operation, repairs and improvements will be $374,203.16.

Among the items for which the university asks increases for the next year are: Land, $25,500; for an increase in the university extension fund, $2,140; for university extension fees, $6,500; for an increase in agriculture buildings, $2,500; for general repairs, $6,297.16; for a soils laboratory, $2,000; for the prevention of contagious abortion, $2,500, and for buildings, $179,450.

$72,500 to Buy Land.

The budget shows that the university would continue its policy of purchasing more land during the year 1916-17, as permitted by the legislature and its estimate for land for that year is $72,500. The budget is prepared in six parts. The first division is a general summary of the different departments of government and a recapitulated statement of

CAPTURE OF WIRELESS STATIONS IS COSTLY

British Hamper the Germans by Cutting All Cables and Destroying Wireless Stations.

(Correspondence of The A. P.)

London, Feb. 2.—The Wireless World has received from Berlin a copy of a communiqué recently published by the German Colonial Office, describing the service to be suffered by Germany through the destruction of her chain of wireless stations.

"Soon after the outbreak of war all communication with the colonies by sea was broken, and all German transmarine cables were cut by the British so that even telegraphic communication with the whole of our colonies was rendered impossible. The only remaining independent communication was wireless telegraphy, but the first warlike measures of the English were directed to depriving us of this means also. On August 12th the wireless station Yap, and soon afterwards the station Naru, in Samoa, fell on August 23 and Biaknak in New Pomerania, on September 12. During the night of August 24 the great station of Kainina, in Togo, had to be destroyed by us in order to prevent its capture. So vanished all possibility of further direct communication with the African Protectorates, which hitherto had been able to communicate via Kainina. As a matter of fact there had been from the very beginning a disturbance of the system which prevented us from receiving any report from the Governor of East Africa after the outbreak of war. And so the material which we have here collected, and which in the main reached Berlin by circuitous routes and very late, and is mostly derived from private letters from enemy newspapers, must necessarily be fragmentary, and some it must also be regarded as untrustworthy."

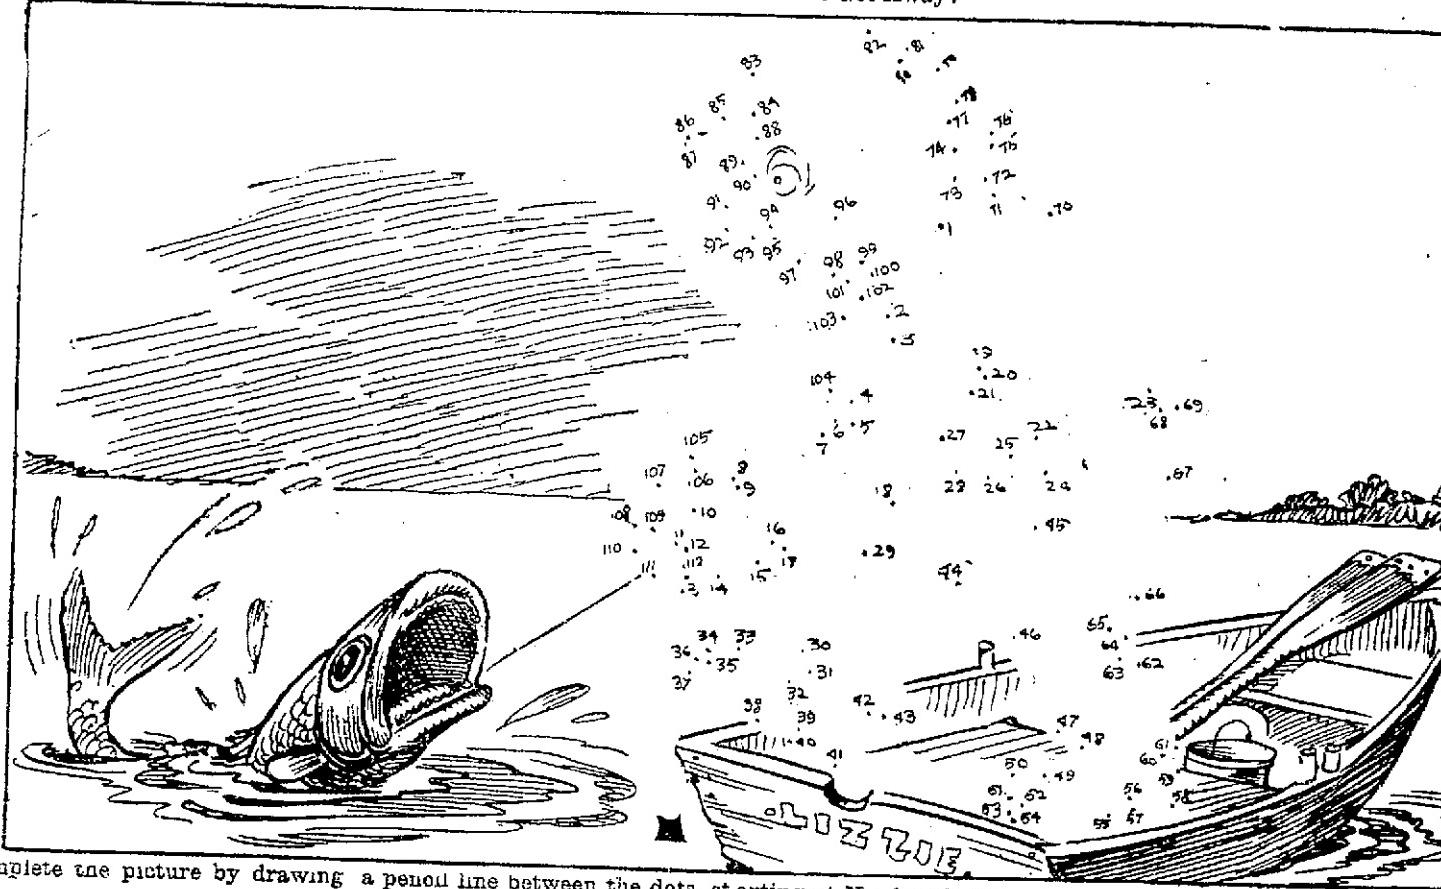

BIGGEST FOG HORNS.

The largest fog signals now made use of are supplied with horns 30 feet long and their blasts are so powerful that they can be heard from twenty-five to thirty miles at sea.

They are generally operated by compressed air, the generator being driven by a gasoline engine of about twenty-five horsepower.

Your feet would ache if you walked from house to house of all real estate concerns in looking for the places where there are rooms for rent. A few minutes study of the Gazette Want section of the paper will save you time and money.

ENGLISH COMEDIAN IS KILLED AT THE FRONT

London, Feb. 2.—Lionel Mackinder, a well known English comedian, who was one of the first of a group of London actors who volunteered for service at the beginning of the war, has been killed in the front. Mackinder made his first London success in 1895 in "The Shop Girl."

Have About the Right Idea.

One thing I never saw in Russia was a parent punishing a child. I asked a venerable old man in Moscow whether that was the rule, or had my observation just been meager. "It is wrong to lay violent hands on the growing ones," he told me. "Russians do not do it. It might break the spirit or spoil the character!"—Exchange.
